3 TIPS FOR WRITING A GOOD PRESS RELEASE— AND WHEN YOU SHOULDN'T BOTHER

Think like a reporter.

Before putting the effort into writing a press release, determine if your story is newsworthy. Ask yourself, “Why would a reporter want to cover my business?” “What is interesting about what I do and who I serve?” “Will anyone care about this story besides me?” Be honest with yourself.

Decide on an angle.

How can you add suspense, intrigue or advice to the story? Try to tie your story into a trend, local news or holiday. For instance, if your auto repair business is celebrating its 20th anniversary, you could include the trends you've seen in automobiles in the last 20 years of business.

Write the story like a reporter would.

The key to a press release is to write the story the way you would expect to read it in a publication.
